Seaside High Receives New Administrator

MONTEREY COUNTY FREE LIBRARY

Trustees of the Monterey Peninsula Unified School District have named Mae Johnson, currently dean of students at King Junior High School, to the post of assistant principal at Seaside High.

The board took the action at its meeting May 21.

Mrs. Johnson, who has worked in Seaside schools since 1964, will assume her new duties in the 1973-74 school year. She will replace Allen Pool, who was given a leave of absence to take a job overseas. Mrs. Johnson was a core teacher at Fremont Junior High before moving to King as a counselor in 1968. She was named dean of students at King for the 1972-73 school year.

The board also approved an eight-week summer adult school session, running from June 18 to August 10. Classes for adults will be held at Seaside and Monterey high schools, and will include basic education courses as well as offerings in arts, crafts and other subjects. Details about the summer adult program will be released soon, district officials said.

I think I told you that I like my job. It is refreshing to feel that you are doing something you want to do and not something that is being just forced down your throat.

The holiday weekend was full of excitement and activity. More excitement than activity. There was the Festival of Arts at Fisherman's Wharf which we took in too briefly. The most fascinating sight was to watch the young man make necklaces out of coins. He would take a fine high speed drill and cut a hole in the coin. Then he would slip a blade saw through the hole and proceed to cut away everything except the face of the man on the coin. When he finished you would see just a face surrounded by open space and the words In God We Trust or whatever other words that were on the face or back of the coin. The price of two matching pieces would run something like $12. There were also many artists there. Their paintings were excellently done.

Monday morning at City Hall Mayor Dolan and his staff were assisted by the military in laying a wreath at the base of the eternal flame. From there they went to Memorable Park to raise flags and honor the dead.

During the weekend the Seaside Mortuary submitted seven obituaries. We win some and we lose some every day.

Monday afternoon was the best. We drove a

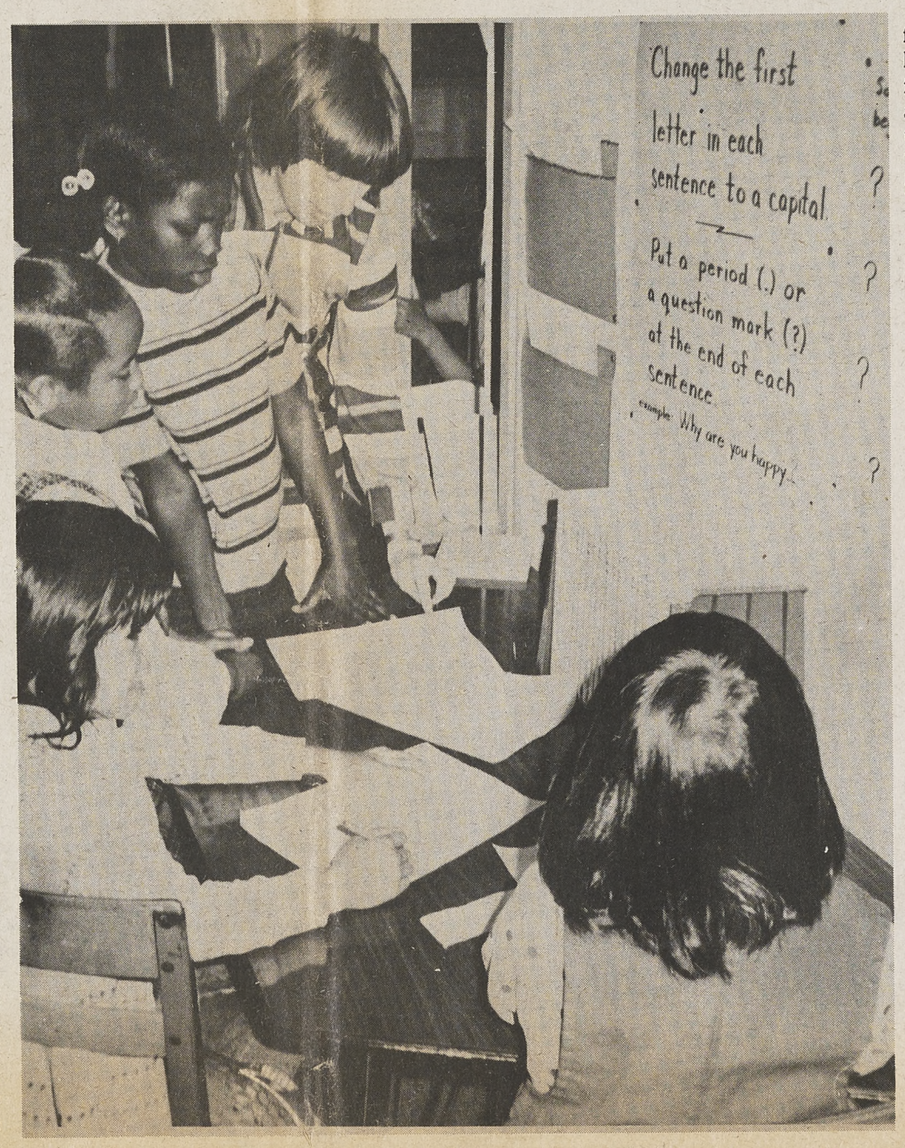
Manzanita Learning Project Claims Gains

Substantial gains in basic skills test results have been made this year by youngsters at Seaside's Manzanita School, trustees of the Monterey Peninsula Unified School District were told at their May 21 meeting.

Primary grade teachers reported that by adding a special teacher and aides, using success-oriented materials and developing an extensive "learning center" approach, they have been able to bring more of their students to or well above their grade levels in achievement.

For example, the median first grader this month has a reading ability two months beyond the median first graders attending the school during the past three years. The median second grader presently reads at the fourth grade level, or nearly two years beyond where second graders of the three previous years were reading. The median third grader last year was reading a full year below his expected level, and this year is only about half a year below expectancy. Test results also indicate that fewer students are scoring in the bottom quartile, showing that students who most needed help are receiving it and progressing with reading skills. Testing shows similar results in mathematics.



UNIQUE - Learning Centers at Manzanita School give youngsters chance to work together, as well as to work individually.

Keeping with the spirit of the building design itself (Manzanita is constructed in pods, with all primary students and teachers sharing one open pod), the teachers have developed a flexible program that involves team teaching, staggered reading and math instruction and constantly changing learning centers. These centers, spotted throughout the building, are used to introduce new skills or reinforce skills already introduced. They give children the opportunity to make their own decisions, learn personal responsibility, independence and sociability, the teachers explained. Activities at the centers are success-oriented, to reduce a child's fear of failure.

Third-grade teacher Carol Starks explained that for the approximately 60 youngsters at that level there are some 18 learning centers, each of them changing every two weeks (two new ones are introduced daily). Youngsters use the centers for an hour four days a week, and visit a center for 15 minutes at a time before moving on to the next station. There are two art centers, three creative writing centers, three for reading, four for math, four for manuscript, cursive and type writing, one for science and social studies and one for "games."

Students keep many of their own records, with teachers and aides monitoring progress and helping out when they see a child is stumped.

The learning centers are tied in closely with subjects being studied. In mathematics centers, for example, students use numerous manipulative devices and "games" designed to help them learn a skill or a concept. The teachers prescribe activities in each center, and make certain each child has completed those activities before moving on to a more difficult phase of learning.

Second graders have about 14 centers, each providing them with a chose of activities, and students in grade one have about 10 centers. As in the third grade, centers in grades one and two are continually changed, and students rotate through them. First graders are joined by selected kindergarten youngsters, the teachers feeling that this experience will help children make a smoother transition from pre-school to first grade status.

Although the learning centers make school more flexible and more fun for students, they mean a great many extra hours of work for the teachers who must continually change them and keep them relevant to their lessins. As evidence of this, Trustee Linda Lee Bassett told her follow board members she knew of a case where Seaside police had to check the school out one morning at 4:30 a.m., having been drawn there by the burning lights. Inside, instead of burglars, they found the primary teacher working on their learning centers.

State Warns Of Extreme Fire Danger

State Fire Marshal Albert E. Hole and Byron Chaney, president of the California Fire Chiefs Association, have joined in alerting Californians that grass fires will pose an extreme hazard in the state this summer.

To protect home and property from the fire hazards that inevitably will occur as the green hills and fields turn golden, Fire Marshal Hole and Chief Chaney offered these pointers:

1. Remove dry grass, weeds, pine needles and leaves to bare ground for a distance of at least 30 feet from all structures.
2. Disk, scrape, or otherwise provide fire breaks along roadways.
3. Call your local fire department or fire district for expert advice.

ARMY RECRUITER

Hello everybody.

At 65, Harlen Sanders was retired and penniless. The gas stations and restaurants he owned and operated for the better part of his career had ill-pre-ared him for his departure from active life. His golden years threatened to provide him with all the lustre and substance of a tawdry amulet. Sometime between the day Harlen Sanders retired and the day he drew his first Social Security check, something happend to change his life dramatically in a way very few have experienced. Harlen Sanders got a brainstorm.

What he decided, and what his first Social Security check of $105 enabled him to do, was to market his favorite recipe for Southern fried chicken. Eight years later, Harlen Sanders, alias Colonel Sanders, sold the American and Canadian rights to his recipe for four million dollars. The fast food industry hasn't been the same since. The Colonel was the finger-lickin' fourerunner of the fast-food impressarios. Roy Rogers, Johnny Carson, Muhammed Ali and others followed in "short order."

Literally millions patronize these abbreviated restaurants daily. Thousands are employed in a wide variety of capacities, many as cooks. Fast-food outlets have done more for the service industry cooking than the Calloping Gourment and all his crepe suzettes and cherries jubilee combined.

Many young men and women have turned to TODAY'S ARMY for their training and experience in the Food Service Field. Young people can assist Army cooks, bread and pastry bakers and meat cutters. W en they learn what they have to know to take over a particular facet of kitchen service, they are given the opportunity. Food Service Apprentices become supervisors as rapidly as they can demonstrate their aptitude and a willingness to shoulder responsibility. TODAY'S ARMY kitchens are filled with bright young people working to learn a skill that will be a valuable asset to them and their families when the time comes to move into a civilian capacity.

Opportunities in TODAY'S ARMY are expanding. Don't miss the opportunity to receive training in one of the 300 jobs TODAY'S ARMY has to offer.

Change Name Of Chapter

The cahpter added two awards to its traditional award of Citizen-Soldier of the Year--the Active Army Soldier of the Year, and the National Guardsman of the Year.

Retired National Guard Colonel L.E. ''Eddie'' Johnson of Salinas was named Citizen-Soldier of the Year. Sergeant Daniel Ray Mitchell of the U.S. Army Reception Station, Fort Ord, was named Active Army Soldier of the Year' and CWO-3 Frank O. Buddy Rich At Jazz Fest

Buddy Rich, pyrotechnic jazz drummer, has been named to perform at the 16th Annual Monterey Jazz Festival, which takes place September 21, 22, 23 on the Monterey County Fairgrounds.

Rich and his band will play during the opening concert, Friday evening, September 21, of the three-day, five show jazz weekend.

Actually, Rich's appearance at Monterey this year was set during last year's Festival when the drummer filled in at the last minute for ailing Stan Kenton.

Other artists will be announced as signed, according to Jimmy Lyons, Festival general manager.

Buddy Rich, according to his official biography, began his career at age 18 months. His parents, a popular vaudeville team, introduced him to audiences playing "Stars and Stripes Forever." At three he became a permanent part of the act and at seven was a "single" billed as "Traps The Drum Wonder."

When he was fourteen, he played drums in the Joe Marsala Band in New York. His long career includes stints with the bands of Bunny Berrigan, Artie Shaw, Tommy Dorsey, Norman Granz Jazz at the Philharmonic, and Harry James. Off and on during his career Rich has fronted his own band and in 1966 formed the present one.

Season tickets for all five concerts of the Monterey Jazz Festival are on sale now. They are $31.25, $26.75 and $21.75. They are available by mail order from the Monterey Jazz Festival, P.O. Box JAZZ, Monterey, California 93940, or from the Downtwon Center Box Office, 325 Mason Street, San Francisco or Neil Thrams Ticket Agency, 2201 Broadway in Oakland.

GRADUATES - Miss Marian Eve Haley, daughter of Mrs. Betty Lou Walker of Seaside, graduated recently as clerk-typist and keypuch operator from Job Corps Center For Women in Albuquerque, New Mexico.

To encourage greater use of state parks by Spanish-speaking Californians, the State Park System's general information folder has now been printed in Spanish.

"A lot of Spanish-speaking people use our southern California beach parks, but relatively few seem aware of the other opportunities available within the State Park System," State Parks Director William Penn Mott, Jr. observes.

Solving the energy problem will be expensive. For you as well as for us.

More costly fuel supplies, construction schedule delays, high interest rates, inflation and the increasing costs of protecting the environment all add up to higher utility rates.

At PG&E we're doing everything we can to provide you with reliable gas and electric service and to keep rates as low as possible. But rates are higher today and they'll continue to increase.

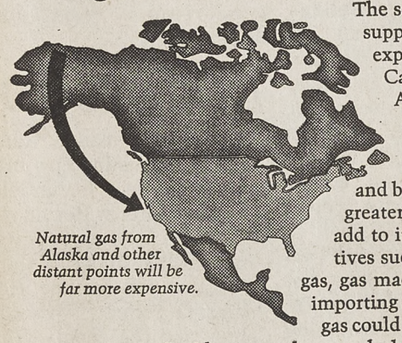
Higher fuel costs.



Natural gas from Alaska and other distant points will be far more expensive.

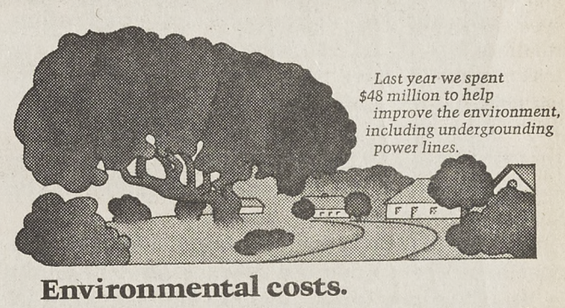
The search for new gas supplies, including exploration in Canada and the Alaskan north slope, is expensive. Such gas will cost more and bringing it from greater distances will add to its price. Alternatives such as synthetic gas, gas made from coal, and importing liquefied natural gas could cost even more.

Besides natural gas, only low-sulfur oil is acceptable as fuel in steam-electric power plants under present air pollution control standards. And we have to pay high premium prices for low-sulfur oil.

(When the costs of oil and natural gas go up, so must electric rates, because most of our steam-electric power plants are fueled by gas or oil.)

Construction schedule delays.

Regulatory procedures, involving 30 or more public agencies, are taking longer and longer. And new laws have established more complicated procedures for plant siting and construction. All these slow down construction schedules, and inflation alone is adding substantially to costs during these periods of delay.

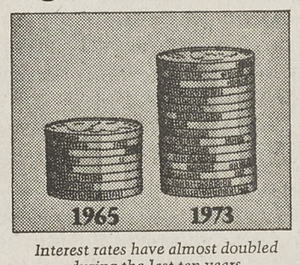


Last year we spent $48 million to help improve the environment, including undergrounding power lines.

Environmental costs.

It costs more to put power lines underground, to build and landscape esthetically pleasing plants, to minimize stack emissions and to cool the water discharged from power plants. During the period 1973-76, PG&E's environmental costs will exceed $300 million.

Higher interest rates.



Interest rates have almost doubled during the last ten years.

Utilities are "capital intensive" industries. That means money to build new facilities must be raised—in vast sums. Our construction program this year will exceed $600 million. And interest rates have risen from about 4½% in 1965 to about 7½% today, which adds more millions to the cost of gas and electric service.

All these things, plus the inflationary pressures which affect every business, add up to higher costs for us and higher rates for our customers.

The era of plentiful energy at bargain rates is ending. Our job is to hold down costs wherever possible, without sacrificing the environment or the quality and reliability of your service. We're working hard to meet that challenge.

You can help—by not wasting gas and electricity and by understanding the reasons why your utility bill is going up. Like almost everything else.

few miles south of Highland Hills and came across another world. After turning off the main highway for a few miles we went to the house of a friend of a friend's. Such beauty and serenity could never be put on paper. This large house was made of redwood and very "country" looking throughout. But the highlight of that visit was the long afternoon conversation with one of the persons who live there.

We shall call him Jack. We talked of many things. And each subject seemed to be what he loved to talk about best. Jack talked about the habits of goats. He gave us many examples of how smart they are and how they will test you. He told us of one of his milk-goats, and how stubborn she can become at times. Also of how she seemed to love you more after you have put her in her place.

Jack talked about the Lord. He explained in detail how they take from the soil to eat, and how things are redeposited into the soil and used as fertilizer for the next crop.

Jack talked long on the habits of bees, I learned more about bees than I dreamed was true. To me, bees are as smart, or maybe smarter than most humans. They have a sense of direction, smell, morality, love, and even mortality that simply surpasses anything I have ever heard from man. He explained how they are relocated to another hive, and how the hive is built. He explained the wax they use and how they hold themselves in a pack by glueing themselves to each other.

We finally took a trip to the beehives (boxes) on the side of the hill. There he explained in minute detail the cycle of life of the bee. And how the females do all the work and the males simply stay in the hive to keep the queen happy at all times. He even told us how the queens are selected or destroyed. It was a fascinating afternoon and evening.

The best part about that place in the country was the peacefulness, and the surroundings which provide the ingredients for meditation and/or attempts at astral projection.

We could not drive up to the place. We had to park about a thousand yards down and lwalk up. But it was worth it. In a place like that it is almost impossible to become lonely. You have the elements and all the sunshine and beauty necessary to make your day full.

But sometimes it is for your benefit to be lonely. Loneliness keeps open the doors to an expanding life. In utter loneliness, one can find answers to living, one can find new values to live by, one can see a new path or direction. Something totally new is revealed.

Loneliness has a quality of depth, it is a significant experience, one of the few in modern life, in which man communes with himself.

So if you are lonely, do not seek the place where I spent my afternoon last Monday. Enjoy your loneliness and retreat to the quiet hills when your mind is open and your heart is full.

Andy and his lovely wife were enjoying their holiday. Driving along the freeway the other day their air-conditioning unit blew up in their car. It was a new experience for them, to say the least, but they made it home with no major difficulties, and after a few hours of rest and deep sleep, he is back in the running again.

This has been a short week, and they are becoming shorter and shorter. So I can truthfully say that within a few days I shall again sit down to talk with you. Meanwhile, do what you have to do.

PUBLIC TRANSPORTATION

For years the Monterey Peninsula has been plagued by inadequate public transportation service. Rail service was justifiably terminated by Southern Pacific due to many economic factors besides the fact that passengers were non-existent.

Tomorrow the State Public Utilities Commission will hold a Public Hearing in Monterey to determine whether or not Bay Rapid Transit should be permitted to abandon its franchise. The hearing is scheduled to commence at 10 a.m. in the Estrada Adobe located on Tyler Street, between Pearl and Bonifacio.

During the past nine months, numerous telephone calls from the concerned people - from all areas of the Monterey Peninsula - have been received. The callers include MPC Students, domestics, and Senior Citizens; all are pleading that an adequate Public Bus service be maintained either through private or public management.

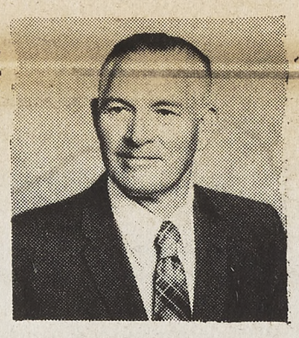
It is recognized that the people, who are most affected by the loss of Public Transportation, will not be able to be present at the public hearing. Working people cannot afford to lose any wages to attend public hearings during working hours. However, most of our concerned senior citizens could - and should - attend the hearing to express their views and concerns. Concerned citizens must become involved and their voices should be heard!

In my opinion the application by Bay Rapid Transit Company to discontinue service immediately should be denied until September 30, 1973. Previously, by mutual agreement with the Joint Powers Agency, Bay Rapid Transit Company had agreed to continue service along the existing routes, time schedules and fares, until September 30, 1973 in exchange for receiving $3,000 per month from the Joint Powers Agency. This agreement was made for the purpose of continuing a vital public service until other methods could be studied and put into execution. The original agreement was to expire on February 28, 1973 but was extended to September 30, 1973, by mutual consent.

Regardless of the outcome of tomorrow's PUC public hearing, all of the Monterey Peninsula cities must adopt and support a Public Transportation Plan that can be implemented without further delays.

As I See It

BY MEL VERCOE



Could your child grow up to be a prosperous respected criminal? Probably so, if he or she went into such a career seriously and didn't become a drop-out and go into some legitimate field of endeavor.

A few years ago I made a speech to a group of businessmen in which I treated crime as just another means of making a living. The pertinent statistics have long since been forgotten, but it worked out that crime is far ahead of many other professions in net return on time invested. My point was, in brief, that a young man who just could not see his way clear to put four or five years in college studying something he considered quite dull, and would likely wind up selling pot or hustling hubcaps for groceries, might do much better in the long run by seriously studying crime.

In our permissive society we have now become so over-permissive that old saying, "crime does not pay," no longer applies. Crime does pay, considering the number of hours of work involved and the amount of material stolen. In general, the only criminals who wind up in prison are the dumb ones who did not put out the effort to make a real study of their line of work. If a criminal were to go to college studying the fine points of embezzlement or bank robbery instead of studying engineering for four years, for example, he would probably make a much better lifetime salary than the engineer.

A fellow with a masters degree in bank robbery would not walk into a bank with a gun and risk a five to ten year sentence for armed robbery. He would instead go for the "big dough" by getting a job in a large bank or whatever, working his way into a trusted position and then making off quietly some day with a couple million dollars to spend in some foreign country. If apprehended he probably would not spend more than a month in jail, whereas his cousin who might get five thousand at the point of a gun could get five years or even get shot.

All of which would make life safer for everybody. Crime is the coming thing. Since we apparently have no intention of trying to stop it by giving stiffer sentences we may as well recognize that more and more people are going into crime as an occupation, and the least we can do is refine it a little bit and remove some of the stigma. When a neighbor starts bragging about his boy's progress in college, you can proudly point out that your boy led his whole class in advanced embzzlement and was getting a scholarship in electronic safe-cracking.

Letters to the Editor

Editor: Why hasn't transportation needs survey been taken to determine how many people would be willing to pay $10 per year for unlimited bus service?

As the Monterey Herald reported several months ago, the bus service in Santa Cruz went from the red to the black by obtaining the support of those who need and use the buses.

Frequent bus service should be provided for Monterey Peninsula College, Alvarado Street, Del Monte Shopping Center and the county offices on Aguajito, to and from Carmel, Pacific Grove, Seaside, Marina and Fort Ord.

There should be service, at least a few times a day, from Carmel Valley Village to the mouth of the valley, and from there through Carmel, from one end to the other. The lovely Pacific Grove coastline should be more accessible, and no doubt Del Monte Avenue needs service. And don't forget !

The fleet of Volkswagon mini-buses run by Young Adults For Action suggested by the Seaside City Council sounds like an excellent solution to the transportation problem.

The VW's would be far cheaper to run, much less pollution of the atmosphere, more flexible and faster than the big, lumbering buses.

Peninsula newspapers could render an invaluable service to their readers by providing a form to send in for stating how many in each family would support unlimited bus services at a yearly rate and where they need the buses to take them most frequently.

Bob Wood Reports

I just learned that for every baby born in the United States today, 22 kittens and puppies are also born, according to the Humane Society of the United States.

As with humans, overpopulation in the animal kingdom poses a serious threat, especially in large cities and urban areas. California animal control agencies, at a cost of over $50 million annually, destroy one million unwanted dogs and cats. For those of us who love dogs and cats and I think most of us do, this is a sickening thought. One reason for such a large number is that there are fewer available homes for pets as society increasingly turns from houses with large yards to apartments, mobile homes, and condominiums. Another is that many individuals don't seem to care about keeping track of their pets. I believe many of see examples of this along the highways where a small percentage of hitchhikers have their gos and pets with them. This is well and good if said dog owners would continue to care for their pet. However, the State and Federal Park Rangers tell us that mant of these pets are left by their owners in the parks where they soon are forced to run in packs for self survival and they have become as destructive and dangerous as coyotes, destroying sheep, lambs, calves and deer. Ten years ago the average rate of reclaimed stray dogs was 72 percent but today the SPCA reveals that less than 17 percent of stray dogs taken off the streets, highways and parks are reclaimed by their owners.

This year there are several pieces of legislation that affect domestic pets and therefore, domestic pet owners. AB 1056 will establish low-cost spay and neuter clinics. In this way spaying and neutering fees will be reduced to a level which a much larger segment of the population will be able to afford. AB 1056 is suported by the Humaine Civic Association, Humane Legislative Advocates and the California Humane Council including our own SPCA here is Monterey County.

With the population of stray and abandoned pets increasing at a rate more than double the rise in human population, it is important that we respond with legislation to meet the demands that the pet population places on our environment and public health.

'George M' OpensToday

The Monterey High School drama and music departments will present the musical comedy "George M." tonight (Wednesday), tomorrow and Friday nights (May 30-June 1) at 8 p.m. in the girls gymnasium.

The spring production is based on the life of George M. Cohan, famed American actor and producer, and is being directed by Judith Jay and Clayton Freeman. Dale Lefler, of the Theater Dance Showcase, is choreographer. Music will be provided by the Monterey High band and by Freeman with students Tammie Jacoubowski and Margie McGowan.

Featured in the cast are Joe Buckalew as Cohan, Ed Mooney as Cohan's father, Vicki Minearo as Nellie, Sherry Shaw as Josie, Carole Moreland as Ethel, Bryndie Beach as Agnes, Shiela D'Angelis as Fay, Lance Henderson as E.F. Albee and Richard Andante as Sam Harris.

Tickets are $1.25 for adults and 75 cents for students and children. They may be purchased in advance at Lily Walker Music in Pacific Grove, the Monterey Music Center or from cast members. Tickets will also be sold at the door.

Fair Expects Record Number Of Entries

A record number of entries was anticipated for the 1973 Monterey County Fair's National Horse Show as premium books were put inot the mail last week.

Because the Horse Show dates (August 6-11) are separate from the Fair dates (August 14-19) this year, and because it will be a six-day Horse Show rather than the five-day show of the past, it was possible to add 36 classes. Additional space in the Fairgrounds will be available for stabling, because the Fair will not be going on at the same time.

A total of $22,415 is offered in premiums in the 1973 book which people all over the country will be receiving this week, $2,000 more than the Horse Show premium offerings last year.

The handsome red, white and black book, with Pegasus on the cover pointing up the Fair and Horse Show theme, "Down to Earth," lists Dick Hadley of Oklahoma City, Okla.; Eugene R. Mische, Palmetto, Fla.; and Lou Fisher, Danville, as judges for the 1973 show. Frank Jordano of Santa Barbara continues as Horse Show manager.

Classes include hackney, harness and roadster ponies; five-gaited and three-gaited saddle horses; walking horses; various classes of hunters; stock, hacamore, trail and cutting horses; and team roping. In the junior division a variety of classes is listed, and there will be a special Monterey County Junior Division open only to residents of Monterey County.

Entries close June 30, 1973. Persons interested in receiving premium books may write Monterey County Fair, P.O. Box 1151, Monterey, Ca 93940.

"Doscovery in Red" is the title of a series of noon-hour programs Wednesday, May 30 in Monterey Peninsula College's Amphitheatre, which will attempt to explore the status and contribution of the American Indian.

David Scott, organizational chairman for the program which is sponsored by the College Center Programs Boakd, said the objectives of the program are similar to those of Asian and Asian Week and Cinco de Mayo celebrations on campus earlier this month, that is "to make students more aware of American Indian culture," he said.

At noon on Wednesday in the amphitheatre, the Salinas-based Inner-Tribal Indian Club, which represents 27 different Indian tribes, will perform numerous Indian dances including the "Friendship Dance" and the "Circle Dance." Scott said that samples of "Indian Fry Bread" would be available for tasting.

Following at 1 p.m. Scott has arranged for Fred West, of the Salinas Chapter of the American Indian Movement to talk and present a video tape of Vernon Bellecourt, national coordinator of AIM, in the Upper Fire Place Lounge of the College Center.

The Bellecourt video film is of a March 15 speech given at Standord University on AIM objectives.

Classical jazz, avant-garde, blues and African rhythms are the elements which will be brought together in two concerts by the Monterey Peninsula College Performing Dance Theatre on Friday and Saturday, June 1 and June 2.

Mrs. Carol Surman, program director, said the concerts would be held at 8:15 p.m. in the MPC Theatre. In discussing the program she said "the dancer's energy does not stop at the footlights, but projects beyond with kinesthetic intensity."

The opening selection of the program gets off to a "fast and furious start" with a dance called "The Magic Bus Ate My Doughnut." Choreographed by Mrs. Surman, the dance is performed to the music of the Don Ellis Band.

"Voices of Children" is the name of a selection which explores the interaction of the human community. "Slipping into Darkness" is a classical jazz piece choreographed and danced by Patti Ward and Jennifer Hobbert. "M'Bari," is a dance based on African rhythms; "Gravities" is an avant-garde piece dealing with weight and release of energy and is also choreographed by Mrs. Surman. "Sunshine," is a lyric piece which is choreographed and danced by Jill Enkowsky.

Dancers include Mary Kilpatrick and Walter White who will attend the Perry-Mansfield School of Dance and Theatre at Boulder, Colorado in the fall; White will go on to study under Ruth Solomon and Bryan Wheeler, instructors at the University of California, Santa Cruz.

High School Bands Named For Monterey Competition

Ten jazz bands and six smaller ensembles have been selected to compete in the Third Annual California High School Jazz Band Competition at Monterey Peninsula College, June 2nd.

The event is sponsored by the Monterey Jazz Festival in cooperation with the College and the National Association of Jazz Educators. The Monterey Jazz Festival, a non-profit corporation, subsidizes the Annual California High School Jazz Band Competition from its grants and scholarship funds.

The bands are from: Bonita High School, La Verne; Corona High School, Corona; Eagle Rock High School, Eagle Rock; Granada High School, Livermore; Richmond High School, Richmond; Pacific and San Leandro High Schools, San Leandor; San Rafael High School, San Rafael; Ygnacio High School, Concord and San Ramon High School, Danville.

Two alternate bands were named in case of absence of a selected band. They are: Awalt High School, Mt. View and Corona Del Mar High School in Corona Del Mar.

The ensembles are from: Richmond High School which will enter two groups; Eagle Rock High School; Ygnacio Valley High School; San Rafael High School and Grant Union High School in Sacramento.

The day long competition will take place in the Monterey Peninsula College Theatre beginning at 9 a.m. The public is invited at no charge.

Judges, all professional jazz performers, are: Hampton Hawes, piano; Carol Kaye, bass; Roy Burns, drums; Mundell Lowe, guitar; John Handy, alto saxophone; Bobby Bryant, trumpet and Kai Winding, trombone.

Besides judging the gands and groups, the seven performers will participate in a jam session that evening when winning bands and groups are announced.

The evening event will take place at 8 p.m. in the College Gymnasium. Three high school band finalists will perform in the competition at that time. As a finale the winning band will be announced as well as the individual high school performers who will comprise an all-star band. The evening program is open to the public at no cost.

The winning high school band will be invited to perform at the 16th Annual Monterey Jazz Festival set for September 21, 22, 23. The all-star band will also be invited to play at the Festival and will be rehearsed by various professional jazz artists. One smaller jazz ensemble will also be selected to perform at the September Festival.

The winning high school band additionally will receive $500 to help cover the costs of its trip to appear in the Monterey Jazz Festival. The winning smaller jazz ensemble will receive $250.

This year for the first time, positions in the All-Star Band are open to all California High School student musicians; not just ones who play in competing bands at the high school festival.

Outstanding soloists will receive awards as well as outstanding instrumental section leaders.

Charges On Bridges Eliminated

The state is eliminating all fees for emergency service, except towing charges, on six toll bridges to reduce accidents, speed traffic and encourage stalled motorists to use call boxes where available.

James A. Moe, Director of Public Works, said legislation will be sought to remove the towing charges as well.

Moe issued the administrative order knocking out the long standing fee system with the enthusiastic support of Frank J. Walton, Secretary of Business and Transportation in Governor Ronald Reagan's cabinet.

The action means that after June 1, 1973, drivers needing gas, a tire change, or similar help will receive service as a courtesy, without the customary $5 charge on the following bridges:

San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge; San Mateo-Hayward Bridge; Richmond-San Rafael Bridge; Carquinez Bridge; Benicia-Martinez Bridge; San Diego-Coronado Bay Bridge.

Bridges served by privately operated service, Dumbarton and Vincent Thomas, are not affected by the new order.

"We want drivers who have trouble on our bridges to use the call boxes where they are available, to get help as quickly and safely as possible," Moe declared.

"The speedy removal of traffic obstructions benefits all drivers using the bridges and we consider emergency service as being prepaid by the basic tolls collected from all drivers."

Bridges with call boxes for emergency services are the San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge, San Mateo-Hayward Bridge, Richmond-San Rafael Bridge and Benicia-Martinez Bridge.

A Division of Bay Toll Crossings study showed that the state will increase user benefits by $185,000 a year through decreasing delay times, accidents and accounting costs, compared to a loss of $110,000 fee income.

The study indicated fees tend to inhibit drivers from requesting emergency services, and the trouble may not become known to the tow-service dispatcher until reported by a passing motorist, the California Highway Patrol, or bridge maintenance workers.

Outdoor News

For California's loyal legion of shad fishermen, their time is finally at hand with reports of good shad fishing coming in from two of the state's top hot spots, Shanghai Benc and Star Bend on the Feather River.

The peak runs still haven't arrived as of the latest report, but shad anglers who have some experience under their belts can pick up 20 to 25 fish apiece using either weighted flies or casting jigs and small lures on spinning tackle.

Some shad also have been reported caught at the mouth of the Yuba River; reports from Colusa cite a few shad taken from the vanguard of the main Sacramento run, and Russian River anglers working the traditional shad holes have been picking up increasing numbers of fish.

On the warmwater front, bass fishing continued at an excellent pace in most major impoundments throughout the state.

The Oroville area has been especially good, with the lake, the Thermalito Afterbay and the dredger ponds all kicking out some fine stringers of bass going two to four pounds on leadhead jigs, plastic worms, live minnows and deep-diving plugs fished close to the shorelines and around submerged brush piles.

Folsom Lake also has been another good spot for bass, although limit fishing for kokanee to 19 inches and rainbows to 14 inches stole the limelight the past few days. Trollers have been limiting regularly on the kokes and 'bows working from Dike 8 to Brown's Ravine with flashers and bait on top.

Folsom also has been rated tops for big bluegill hitting meal worms and red worms in shallow water, with some of the 'gills tipping the scales at nearly two pounds.

Panfishermen also have a bonanza awaiting them at Copco Lake above Iron Gate Dam at the head of the Klamath River. The alke abounds in yellow perch, and you can just about fill the boat with them, using red worms or small lures fished around the shoreline brush. The upper Klamath also is producing excellent bait, lure and fly fishing for 13 to 22 inch rainbows, while the main lake has kicked out some limits of largemouths to five pounds for anglers working plugs, bottom bumping lures, or bait in the coves.

Ocean anglers didn't fare quite as well as their freshwater counterparts recently, with winds sabotaging most party boat efforts for salmon. Rockfishing from Monterey north to San Francisco has been consistently good, however.

WANT TO KNOW THE HONEST TRUTH ABOUT GROUND BEEF?

IT'S THIS: NOBODY can guarantee its EXACT fat content.

There's been lots of talk lately about the fat/lean ratio in ground beef. So why not label each package: Contains X% of fat? Let us tell you why.

We've been making ground beef just about as long as anyone and we know there's no way to make two batches that are exactly alike. Two samples taken from the same batch (or even the same package) can differ in ratio of fat to lean. Even with meticulous care in selecting ingredients, there are variations in fat/lean ratio. Even with our most modern grinding and mixing equipment. Even with use of the best available fat-measuring devices.

Yet we know our customers want and expect us to provide them with a choice of ground beef products to meet their varying preferences, tastes and budgets. After long and careful consideration, we have concluded that we can best meet our customers' need for variety by offering just two ground beef products—REGULAR and PREMIUM. We make both kinds from fresh chunks of beef. We prepare both kinds with equal care to maintain the top quality which has helped earn our fine meat reputation.

Our REGULAR is made the way we believe most families prefer their ground beef. It contains enough fat to assure full juiciness in the cooked meat. It makes marvelous hamburgers, meat loaves, meat balls, spaghetti sauce, Salisbury steak and other delicious dishes.

Our PREMIUM is made to please families that want a leaner ground beef. It shrinks less in cooking and makes wonderful ground beef dishes of all kinds—plain and fancy.

Why not try both kinds and see which is preferred by the folks at your house? (You might even want to make a mix with some of each.) The famous Safeway money-back guarantee applies, of course, to our ground beef as to all of our other products.
